

Climate change: Can traditionally built buildings provide an answer?

November 27 2009 10am – 3.50pm
The Theatre Royal, Bury St Edmunds

- 10am Registration and coffee
- 10.15 Welcome and housekeeping
- 10.20 Brief history and introduction to the Theatre Royal
Mark Simonds, Theatre Manager, Theatre Royal
- 10.25 How can the preservation of our historic buildings help in the battle against climate change
Marianne Blaauboer, External Affairs Manager, The National Trust
- 10.55 The architecture of sustainable buildings
David Kirkland, Kirkland Fraser Moor
- 11.25 The cost savings associated with adapting old buildings to be more sustainable
Terry Keech, Partner, Calfordseaden
- 11.55 Refreshment break
- 12.15pm Traditional building techniques, their sustainability and their application in contemporary situations
Dr James Campbell, Senior University Lecturer, Cambridge University
- 12.50 Question and Answers from the morning session
- 1.05 Lunch and Networking
- 2.0 Walking tour of Bury St Edmunds
Michael Munt, Historic Areas Advisor, English Heritage (East of England Region)
Ralph Carpenter, Architect, Modece Architects
- 3.30 Refreshments, question and answers and discussion from the day
- 3.50 Close

